FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Ind., June 2.—Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, irrepressible through 25 stormy years in politics, shattered the placid serenity of the annual conference of governors today with a slashing attack on the power trust and the great utilities interest.

Refusing to be held within the narrow confines of "non-controversial subjects," which are all the conference has heard to date, Governor Pinchot lashed out at the utilities with both hands. He pictured the power trust as a giant octopus which is progressively swallowing the American people and, if uncontrolled, will completely dominate political and economic life in this country in a few years.

Governor Pinchot didn't mince words. He accused the utilities of "graft" in their relationship to the public.

Calling it graft, he said, "and I am well within my right. Through the device of the write-up the electric utilities alone are today collecting from the people of Pennsylvania interest on much more than $100,000,000 that was never put into the business."

By the same methods, he asserted, the electric power interests are taking half a billion dollars a year from the nation as a whole.

Concrete laying is beginning on the paving of Laurel avenue. When this street, with two lines of concrete and a fine parkway between is completed, it will be one of the finest streets of the city. ## Margiotti Denies Rumors Of Death

(International News Service)
PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., June 2.—Charles J. Margiotti, western Pennsylvania criminal lawyer, whose prosecution of Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague resulted in their execution in the death chair, today requested International News Service to paraphrase Mark Twain and report that reports of his death were "greatly exaggerated."

Margiotti has been the target of threatening letters since Irene and Dague were put to death.

Rumors of his "assassination" spread rapidly through Western Pennsylvania today resulting in newspaper offices being swamped with telephone calls.

Margiotti said:
"It is inconceivable that an attorney who has been active in criminal practice would not have made some enemies—and I presume there are some people on this globe who would like to shoot me."

"I have prosecuted alleged murderers and defended alleged murderers without the slightest personal animus. I only did my duty to those who employed me."

"I am satisfied that they are not shooting attorneys or anyone else these days. I am doing my duty and wish to assure my friends I have not been shot."

Legislation Of Lawrence County Members Passed At Recent State Session

When the pamphlet laws of 1931 are printed, a number of pieces of legislation will be on the books which were sponsored by members of the Lawrence county delegation in the session of the legislature just closed.

Without question, the most important piece of legislation insofar as the western end of the state is concerned, is the Pymatuning dam bill, which though it bears the name of Representative Stevenson of Mercer county, was made possible by Senator George T. Weingartner. Before any legislation was presented, it was necessary to convince the governor and the secretary of revenue that it was important enough to warrant an appropriation of $1,500,000. This was done by Senator Weingartner and with the legislative machinery set up for the passage of the bill, Mr. Stevenson presented it and it was passed and signed.

Bridge Legislation.
The next bill in importance to Lawrence county was the bridge bill sponsored by Senator Weingartner which provides that where a bridge over a main highway connects a third class city and a borough or township, the state will construct and maintain it on a 50 per cent basis. This relieves Lawrence county of 50 per cent of the cost of the bridge over the Mahoning river at the foot of the seventh ward.

Other bills of Senator Weingartner included the building and loan bill, third class city code, county controller bill and a series of three bills covering bonds for contractors. The building and loan bill authorizes such companies to reduce the principal and payments of loans, where a subscriber has made any considerable payment, but for various reasons is unable to keep up the payments based on the original amount. Thus, a subscriber who had paid $2000 on a $5000 loan, and was unable to keep up the $50 monthly payments, could have his debt reduced to $3000 and the payments reduced to $30 per month.

PITTSBURGH, June 2.—With the re-election of Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, of Philadelphia, moderator of the general assembly, as stated clerk, adoption of the report upon marriage, divorce and re-marriage, and moral support offered to conscientious objectors to war already ecclesiastical history, the 143rd general assembly of the Presbyterian church today prepared for discussion on majority and minority reports of the overtures committee.

These reports now contain the only reference to birth control before the assembly. Prophecies of debate on this issue went by the boards when it was announced that all reference to birth control had been eliminated from the special commission on marriage, divorce and re-marriage.

Reforms Proposed.
The report upon marriage, divorce and re-marriage, adopted by the general assembly, proposes reforms in marriage laws, uniform divorce laws and an exhaustive educational campaign upon the ideals of marriage.

A feature of the assembly to date was the action of the assembly in putting the Presbyterian church squarely behind conscientious objectors to war service and reaffirmation of its stand opposing compulsory military education. The assembly also favored entry of the United States into the world court and endorsed prohibition educational campaigns in the public schools.

The Presbyterian marriage code was changed but little. The report pointed out that "it is doubtful if anything is wrong with marriage (Continued On Page Two)"

Apparently resigned to whatever the sentence may be, Mrs. Maude Lowther, quarter-breed Indian of Ashtabula, O., above, shows no emotion as she stands trial at Jefferson, O., for the murder of Mrs. Clara Smith for whose death Tilby Smith, her husband, and paramour of Mrs. Lowther, is scheduled to die in the electric chair on Aug. 17. waited three hours in the rain for Tilby and his family to pass a lonely spot, then shot Mrs. Smith as she sat holding her baby in her arms. Tilby then drove a quarter of a mile to his brother's garage, where he declared his wife had been killed during a holdup. He confessed later, however, the shooting took place just 10 days after Tilby, a truck driver, and Mrs. Lowther met in a movie.

NEW YORK, June 2.—Bludgeoned, strangled, stabbed, Dr. George E. Deely, well-known Brooklyn specialist, was found murdered in his bedroom today.

It was a real murder mystery. There were no windows open. The door was locked, apparently from the inside. No one in the house heard any disturbance.

There were many evidences of a struggle in the luxurious apartment. Curtains were jerked from the windows. Tables, chairs, and other furniture were overturned.

Directly across the street from the murder house is located a school for girls.

FRENCH LICK SPRINGS, Ind., June 2.—The difficult times through which the country is now passing call for political and economic leadership of high quality, and perhaps experiments which have not been tried. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, told the annual conference of governors today in a speech in which he advocated closer relationship between agriculture and industry.

The speech of the New York governor was listened to with rapt attention by the twenty odd governors attending the conference for Roosevelt is generally rated the foremost contender for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1932. And although he strove to keep his speech within the non-political lines of the governors conference, it was inevitable that national political interpretations were placed upon it.

The time has passed in this country, he said, when industry and agriculture can proceed on the old hit-or-miss basis. The time has come, he said, for careful, intelligent planning by state and national governments, to the end that there shall be a balanced and rational relationship between agriculture and industry, and a more equitable distribution of whatever prosperity is at hand.

American Knights Of

ROME, June 2.—Government action to end the controversy between state and church appeared imminent today.

The directorate of the Fascist party was expected to outline a program of conciliation toward the Vatican at a meeting over which Premier Benito Mussolini was to preside. The session of party leaders follows the special consistory of 24 cardinals yesterday at which Pope Pius XI insisted that the Lateran treaty and the concordat be upheld and maintained.

To Outline Policy.
Rome today anxiously awaited the meeting at which it was understood the government's policy would be outlined and further explanation of its actions during the past few days be afforded.

It was understood playgrounds operated in the capital by the American Knights of Columbus would be reopened today. They were closed on Saturday by the decree that locked the doors of Catholic clubs throughout the nation.

Mussolini's action in forbidding a demonstration of Fascist students last night also gave evidence that today's meeting would result in further negotiations for the resumption of amicable relations between the Vatican and the Quirinal. The students had planned to assemble near St. Peter's square close to the Vatican.

Order Attacks Halted.
Further evidence of attempts to close the widening breach was seen in the order issued by the government and the church to its newspapers to discontinue attacks prevalent during the past week.

Conditions moved toward an impasse yesterday when Mussolini ordered the dissolution of all organization of Catholic youths in the country and the pope forbade the celebration of church festivals and functions, with the exception of regular services.

The serious nature of the disputes between the government and the church was explained in the long conference the pope held with the cardinals. It was understood he received full support of the prelates for his firm adherence to the treaty and the concordat and he was urged to maintain his stand.

Although it was reported Pope Pius related in detail the extent to which diplomatic negotiations have proceeded, no statement was made regarding his utterances on the subject. (Continued On Page Two)

CALL EXPECTED

(International News Service)
With opposing mine workers' leaders claiming between 4,000 and 5,600 bituminous coal miners out on strike in Washington county and the Pittsburgh district, Patrick T. Fagan, president of the local union, United Mine Workers of America, and Frank Borich, secretary of the National Miners union, both lay claim today to having called the walkout which has resulted in fourteen operations being affected.

Fagan claimed 4,000 men are on strike. Borich reported that at least 5,600 workers are out and predicted a spread of the walkouts to all of Western Pennsylvania after a general strike call which, he said, will be issued this week.

Fourteen Mines Affected
Of the fourteen mines affected, eight are in the Pittsburgh district. Operations where walkouts occurred are: Duquesne, P. & W., Atlasburg, McDonald, Cedar Grove, Langlosh, Gilmore, Buffalo, Bertha, Kinloch, Coverdale, Mollenauer, Horning and Hillman mines.

Borich announced today that a general strike committee, representing all miners who have left their posts, would meet in Pittsburgh this afternoon to formulate demands for higher wages, better working conditions and the right to have their own checkweighmen at the tips.

Opposing statements by Borich and Fagan, in which each leader claimed jurisdiction in the walkouts, were issued last night.

NEW YORK, June 2.—A "murder for a thrill"—the second of its kind in American criminal history—was solved today with the arrest in West Orange, N. J., today of Phillip Knox Knapp, former Cornell student and "black sheep" of a prominent Syracuse, N. Y., family, who confessed to the police that he killed Louis Panella, a taxicab driver, for the "thrill" he got out of it.

"I don't know why I did it, unless it was for the thrill," Knapp told the authorities. "His (Panella's) spectre pursued me for nearly six years."

Hunted Six Years
In some respects, Knapp's "thrill killing" complex was similar to the strange mental attitude of Nathan Leopold and Dick Loeb, the wealthy Chicago youths, who perpetrated the other thrill slaying—the "experimental" murder of little Bobby Franks nearly a decade ago, a crime that shocked the nation.

Knapp thought he could execute the "perfect crime," vanish under an assumed name and avoid detection. He was possessed of an uncontrollable desire for excitement. Self-destruction he had considered, he wrote in a letter dated June 26, 1925, about a week before the killing of Panella, but as he expressed it "although the result was desired" (Continued On Page Two)

Homemade Burglar Alarm Kills Man

Killed By Buckshot Placed
To Stop "Vandalism"

(International News Service)
DOYLESTOWN, Pa., June 2.—A homemade burglar alarm, designed to protect his beautiful gardens from the "vandalism" of passing motorists who plucked the flowers, caused the death of his inventor, Dr. Ralcy Husted Bell, 62, noted author and retired alienist, police said today.

His body was found on his estate near here, discovered by a caretaker who said he had been missing for several days. The caretaker said the death was "purely accidental."

Dr. Bell evidently forgot about his own trap when he opened a garden doorway. In doing so he caused the discharge of shotguns which riddled him with buckshot.

Investigators declared that the author's flair for inventing traps to protect his property had become almost an obsession with him.

Gas Retailers Are Relieved By Passage Of Law

Will Eliminate Many Worries, Local Gas Dealers Assert Today

Most of the gasoline retailers in New Castle are much relieved by the passage of the new gasoline tax collection method which went into effect yesterday.

It will mean that they will no longer have to worry about figuring up the money due to the state on the amount of sales made, and will save them considerable time, they state.

Under the terms of the old law, the retailers were responsible for the collection of the tax. In order to reimburse them for their efforts the state government allowed them one per cent of the collections. However, they had to post bond in the sum of $3,000 to insure the faithful performance of this duty, which cost them around $10. This meant that they had to sell approximately 33,000 gallons of gasoline before they had their money back.

The law required that they mail a statement of the collections made during the month, together with a check for the money collected by the 15th of the succeeding month. If the statement was not in the hands of the state by that time, a ten per cent penalty was added, which was increased one-half of one per cent each succeeding month.

Under the terms of the new act the distributor is made responsible for the collections, thus cutting down the number of collectors materially. The ten per cent penalty for failing to file a return within the prescribed time has been eliminated, but the one-half per cent penalty is still in force.

Instead of the retailer having to keep the books, it is now up to the wholesaler, and the retailer has had a big load relieved from his shoulders.

You're the JUDGE

Old John Fairweather agreed to sell some land to his neighbor on the left. The agreement read that the sale was to be closed within 30 days from the date of the agreement and also provided that, both parties willing, it could be extended another 30 days. But before the first 30 days' time expired the neighbor called upon Mr. Fairweather and requested him to close the deal, he being ready to make the necessary payment and comply with the other stipulations in the contract. Fairweather, however, answered that he had changed his mind and that he had decided that he would not go through with the agreement.

There were still about 10 days left to the end of the first 30 days, but the neighbor thought he wouldn't wait any longer and filed suit.

able, the utter enjoyment of facing death, was absent." After a world-wide search that lasted six years, Knapp was located early today in West Orange, living under the assumed name of Allen K. Phillips. Under this name he had married Miss Eleanor Hill of Boston soon after the slaying of Panella. She told the police this morning she did not have the slightest idea that he was guilty of any crime.

Knapp and his wife had been living at the West Orange address since last October. He had been employed as a mechanic for the Public Service Corporation. His wife was unaware of his true identity until the police arrested him.

Confesses Killing
He was summoned to the door of his home, a small cottage, and was seized by a dozen detectives. He made no resistance. At first he denied all knowledge of the killing of Panella but later, according to the authorities, he made a complete confession.

"I might as well come clean," he said. Knapp had also married another woman, Fannie Taub, of Baltimore, a dancer, the police later revealed. This information was given out by Chief of Police Patrick J. McDonough, of West Orange, who said Knapp married the Taub woman two months before the killing of Panella. He deserted her.

Knapp cut a lot of red tape by waiving extradition and he was promptly taken out of the jurisdiction of New Jersey and brought by airplane to Long Island for trial at Mineola.

He was rushed to the Newark airport, accompanied by Police Captain Emil Morse, and from there he was flown to Mineola. It was Knapp's first airplane flight, although he had worked as a mechanic on planes, and he seemed somewhat apprehensive.

Ahepans To Send Two To Capital Flag Ceremonies

Greek Republic To Present Silk Flag To State; Many To Attend

Two delegates of the New Castle Chapter No. 87, Order of Ahepa, were to be named today or tomorrow to attend a public banquet program Thursday evening at Harrisburg when the Greek republic, through Ambassador Charalambos Simopoulos formally presents a Greek silk flag to Governor Pinchot, in behalf of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The banquet affair at the Penn-Harris hotel will be attended by notables of the Order of Ahepa and the American Legion, with which organization the evening's program has been jointly arranged.

The flag is one of 48 Greek flags being presented to states of the union by Greek representatives. It is a manifestation of the good will that has existed between America and Greece since 1829. At that time Greece after a heroic struggle gained her independence from Turkey.

Archbishop Athenagoras, who recently came here as a representative of the Greek Orthodox church in North America, will be one of the guests at the ceremony. Others will be, besides Ambassador Simopoulos, Frank Schoble, national vice-commander of the American Legion; Lieutenant Governor Shannon; George E. Phillips, supreme president of the order of Ahepa, and representatives from Ahepa chapters from the entire state of Pennsylvania.

Last year Pennsylvania sent a state flag to the Greek republic on that nation's 100th anniversary of its independence. The Pennsylvania flag was presented at Athens by a delegation of American Legion members of Greek extraction, and the presentation of the flag to Pennsylvania is an acknowledgment of that gift.

The event is being arranged under the joint auspices of the Harrisburg Post 27 of the American Legion and Harrisburg Chapter 64, Order of Ahepa, in cooperation with the state and national officers of both organizations.

He maintained an apartment on the top floor of the house. His offices were on the first floor.

ORIGIN OF THE EARTH'S ATMOSPHERE AND WATER

The planetesimal theory set forth by Chamberlin and Moulton held that the earth began with a small nucleus torn away from the sun; that this nucleus grew by the building up of its mass from meteors that fell upon it, a cold earth. That when the earth had grown to about one-tenth of its present mass, it began to attract to itself those atoms and molecules composing our present hemisphere. Modern geologists are inclined to believe that both the earth's atmosphere and water came from the interior of the earth—a part of it as water and atmosphere and some as gases that combine to make air and water.

The question of marriage and divorce, the report pointed out, is one of education. In this connection, the report said, in part:

"The fundamental trouble is that the attention of young people is generally directed through our newspapers, magazines, movies, plays and fiction to marriage at its worst rather than at its best."

Possibilities of action looking toward severance of relations with the federal council of Churches of Christ in America dwindled today following the report of Dr. John Ross Stevenson, of Princeton, chairman of the department of church cooperation and union.

"The federal council has never given a united opinion on the subject of birth control," Dr. Stevenson's report said. "Nor has such a report ever been adopted with ecclesiastical authorization. Its own committee was not agreed upon the subject."

They professed not to have any information as to what Garrett proposed to do about the promised protest by Edward Hearn, of Boston head of the American Knights of Columbus, against Mussolini's action in ordering the playgrounds closed along with other Catholic clubs.

Nevertheless, it was stated informally that a neutral attitude by the department probably would be adopted because of the danger of provoking criticism from non-Catholics in this country. No official, however, would lend his name to that sentiment.

HERSHEY CHAPTER CLOSSES SEASON

A most delightful closing event of the season was the dinner meeting held Monday evening in the dining room of the First Presbyterian church when the members of the Hershey auxiliary held their last meeting until fall.

Covers were marked for more than 50 at tables placed in the form of an X and centered with baskets of iris, blue bells, wiggilia and other flowers of the early summer. The hostesses at dinner included Mrs. Mont Magill, Mrs. George Hamilton, Mrs. David Ritchie, Mrs. Ira Ramsey, Mrs. L. C. Mantz, Mrs. Harry Rea, Mrs. William Woodworth, Mrs. R. E. Larry, Mrs. Archibald Davis, Mrs. J. A. McNeill and Mrs. M. S. Kelly, and a most delicious menu was served.

Following dinner a business session was held with Mrs. H. E. Golder in the chair. Reports were heard from the officers, standing committees and special committees, showing the auxiliary had done splendid work throughout the past year.

Mrs. J. Elder had charge of the program for the evening and she called on Mrs. A. B. Fankhouser, who had been a delegate to the Presbyterian meeting at Pulaski, to give a report of the conference, which she did in a splendid manner, bringing the high lights of the meeting to the members.

Mrs. Golder then introduced Mrs. Howard Magill, field worker of the Shenango Presbyterian, who in a most realistic and enthusiastic manner brought a magnificent report of the biennial meeting of the Presbyterian, which was held in Pittsburgh last week. She gave the high spots of each speaker's message that appeared at the biennial and closed, leaving the thought that the Hersheys be more loyal to their denomination and the missionary work carried on by their organizations.

The roll call for the evening was answered with bits of information of interest concerning Porto Rico.

Mrs. Golder brought the meeting to a close with the wish that each and every member would enjoy the summer vacation and come back inspired for the work next September.

Concluding a most delicious menu the assemblage adjourned to the auditorium of the Arthur McGill school where Misses Ruth Wilson, Mildred Burleson and Mrs. Dorothy Guy, teachers, entertained the group in a most grotesque manner with shadow pictures. The pictures presented first, a scene in the operating room of the Jameson Memorial hospital; second, an Indian massacre, and third, a scene in the office of Dr. Jay L. Reed and the pantomiming of the exaggerated scenes, enlarged on the screen, kept the group in an uproar from the beginning to the end of the entertainment.

OUR AMAZING AERIAL MANEUVERS

FROM Washington yesterday came the announcement that the United States Army mobilization of planes and the gigantic maneuvers in the air have been completed and that the 672 planes which shared in the program were to start their homeward journeys in the near future.

The announcement signalized the fact that under the direction of the United States Army the greatest aerial maneuvers of all time had just been successfully completed.

One can hardly realize just what had been accomplished during this mobilization of planes. There were long flights of hundreds of miles by groups of planes in formation, there were attacks by the entire massed body of 600 or more planes on Chicago and New York, there were flights over Dayton, and thrilling exploits in New England, and elsewhere, and yet not a single fatality or serious accident occurred.

Despite the fact that millions of miles were flown, that hazardous flying was undertaken, and that the maneuvers were at times exceedingly difficult, these planes are starting back to their home ports without a pilot missing because of having been seriously injured.

It is an amazing record, and one that goes to show that safety in the air seems to be very largely a matter of skillfully trained pilots with equipment that is right.

Safety in the air has been given a wonderful boost by this demonstration as well as emphasis to the fact that U. S. Army fliers of the present day are leading the world procession.

We dare say that the safety record made by the fliers in these gigantic maneuvers has been a surprise to nine tenths of the inhabitants of these United States. Concentration of such an army of planes and fliers somehow brought fear of casualties, and the absence of any such is a revelation of a most pleasing nature to the most of us.

AN UNPOPULAR PLAN

If the British Legion, which corresponds to the American Legion, believed it had hit upon a popular theme when it moved to propagandize the public into calling Armistice Day "Remembrance Day," it made a miscalculation. World-wide reaction to the suggestion has been anything but favorable.

The first Armistice Day was one of celebration, not of remembrance. Among the celebrants there was honor and praise for those who had ended the war, but on that day of days this was a world with but a single thought—peace. It was a day of forward, not backward, looking.

Would not the rechristening of November 11 at this time provide observance of Memorial and Armistice Days on the same day? To call just the entering wedge sought by those who have been advocating the November 11 "Remembrance Day" would be setting aside two days of the year for the same purpose.

"Remembrance Day" does not tell the whole story of that memorable Armistice Day and its full world significance. It calls upon the living to remember the war dead, not to work for the end of all wars. It says "Remember war!" when the message of Armistice Day is "Think of peace!"

"Armistice Day best bears the denotation and connotation that fit the American idea and ideal of November 11.

STOP-WATCH VACATION

"The man who plans a vacation by consulting time tables and lays out a stop-watch itinerary had better stay at home," says Dr. Louis Karnosh, a prominent American psychiatrist. We live too much by schedule and routine. Our vacations, if they are to be beneficial, must be leisurely, with an element of chance and surprise in them.

The time table, of course, may be essential in getting to and from the chosen vacation spot. What the doctor objects to is planning the whole vacation ahead of time and insisting on making certain points at certain hours and moving on again according to schedule. We can do that at home all the rest of the year.

That is probably the chief fault of the American tourist in foreign lands. The typical tourist usually thinks he has to see a certain number of things in a given place, so he dashes from one to the other as fast as possible, and exclaims, "That's that!" with relief at the end of the day. It would be so much easier, pleasanter and more effective to pick out some one thing that really appeals to him, and then enjoy it to the full, letting everything else go until another time.

Vacations should offer not only change of scene and activity, but change of method.

Many years ago teachers wasted, or at least spent much time in efforts to make left-handed youngsters right-handed, or at least in an effort to bend the twig sufficiently to make left-handed pupils write right-handed. First results and then science proved that their efforts were wasted, or even worse; that in some cases harmful effects followed this interference with natural tendencies. So now if left-handed children do not respond to certain under-cover suggestions, they are permitted to continue along the lines laid out by nature.

Still we can't leave them entirely alone, even in their maturity. They appear to be willing to read right-handed, but now it is suggested that they be made—maybe the word is permitted—to read left-handed.

Influenced, it is believed, by a left-handed official, the French Minister of Public Instruction is advising publishers that a "left-handed edition" be issued of all important books. That is to say, that these books of special preparation be so designed that they may be read from the back backward, starting at the last page and so through the book to the ending on the first page, making the first last and the last first.

It is all the result of a study which has been made by the left-handed official of mention. This man, who is a heavy reader, says left-handed persons read approximately one-third slower than right-handers. This, he believes, is because of an inherent difficulty in turning the pages of a book with the right hand. Such a device may be all right for the left-handers, if reversal of the order of pages really would help them, but it will be hard on the right-handers who want to borrow their books. Maybe that is what the left-handed French official is aiming at.—The St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

That Dare-Devil You Knew
I Remember Leo
The Great Kidnaping

By MARSHALL MASLIN

There's always a boy—or maybe a girl—out of your youth who's been lost to sight for many a year and you wonder what became of him. He had charm, he had imagination, he was adventuresome, he had the devil in him and you can't help wondering what the devil did with him—or what a merry chase he led the devil.

I remember Leo, a handsome half-Chinese lad, who lived in our neighborhood. Leo had the best collection of wild west dime novels in town and he lent us a stack of them. My mother confiscated them and put them in the kitchen stove. And when Leo came to get them back she told him what she thought of him and warned him not to read such trash. Leo smiled and said, "Yes, Mrs. Maslin, perhaps you are right." But those handsome black eyes of his had a mocking gleam in them, as he agreed.

A few years later, when he was about 15, Leo concocted a Great Kidnaping Plot. He decided to steal the son of a prosperous family. The boy was bigger than Leo and Leo would have had trouble. But Leo sent letters suggesting that unless $5,000—I think it was $5,000—was left under the culvert on the country road at midnight, he'd steal his friend. Leo rode past on his bicycle at midnight and when he climbed under the culvert the police caught him. He was sent to the reform school and we kids were angry—because Leo was good, not bad.

And when he came back to town several years later, he was just the same. Handsome. Smiling. Charming. With the same gleam in his eyes. The same smolder for adventure about him. I think he became interested in gliders. Those Wright brothers had started the world and people were flying the English channel and straying dare-devil were making barnstorming flights about the land. I went away. I lost track of Leo—and I heard years later that Leo had studied aviation and had gone to China to become an aviator in the Chinese army, on one side or the other. Perhaps he didn't care which side, as long as it was exciting.

I don't know what happened to him. He may be dead. He may be bombing rebels. He may be living peacefully with a wife and six children. I doubt that, but wherever he's living and whatever he's doing, I'm sure life is still some kind of dare-devilish adventure for Leo, as it will always be.

There's always a boy—or maybe a girl—who was Bound for Adventure, and you wonder and wonder whatever became of them.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

HOW THE GREAT BECAME SMALL

Unlike the question, "What has become of the Indians," the question, "What has become of the battle ships used in the Civil War?" may be partly answered. Some of the vessels were scrapped, others became monuments. At the mouth of the Mississippi River between New Orleans and McDonoghville, operating in transfer service is none other than the "Chickasaw," which went through smoke and din of battle under Farragut at Mobile during the war of the states.

The history of this old ship is interesting. It was built in St. Louis in 1863, and after the war was converted into a coal barge operating between New Orleans and the mouth of the Mississippi. Later it was returned to St. Louis, where it was reconstructed to handle trains in ferry service. About five years ago the old vessel was made a transfer boat and renamed the "Godolboro." Its capacity is ten freight cars or four passenger cars. It is fairly fast and makes the trip across the Mississippi in eleven minutes.

ON THAT HANDSHAKE

It is well to show that you are pleased and to be courteous when you are introduced to a person.

It is not so good to be overenthusiastic or servile in effect.

To be unduly pleased when presented to an individual is a sort of intimation that you feel something is to be gained by the contact.

Those who have money naturally think you want pecuniary aid or something like that and the impression that you have created for yourself is not to your advantage.

Every person with a spark of genuine nature is more or less gratified to meet another who presents a possibility of common interests.

But a too effusive manner and a vice-like hand grip is going to meet a suddenly cold and hardened exterior by way of recognition.

Those who have no personal gain in mind usually acknowledge an introduction with a shrug.

They don't give strangers the idea that they are accepted on an equal basis until they know more about them.

If you believe that an undue display of affability, good spirits and desire for that particular companionship are winning, you have an erroneous idea and your actions savor of artificiality.

Supreme Court "Red-Flag" Decision Generally Approved

Supreme Court Action Interests Whole Country Because Of Distinction Made Between Support Of Political Changes And Seditious Agitation

The press applauds the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States that California's "red-flag law" is unconstitutional and interprets it as an assurance to the people of the right of free speech and free political discussion while letting down no bars to the use of force or violence. The decision is seen to have far more significance than the freeing of Yetta Stromberg, whose conviction it set aside.

The SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE outlines the defective clause as follows: "This California law, under which the Yetta Stromberg case has attracted so much attention throughout the Nation, makes it a felony to display a red flag (1) as a symbol or employment of opposition to organized government, (2) as an invitation of stimulus to anarchistic actions, (3) as an aid to propaganda," and explains that "the first was held by the Supreme Court to be too broad a description and invalid, since it makes no exception of legal forms of opposition." The Chronicle further remarks: "The red flag law itself is quite likely a piece of over-anxiety on the part of its makers. It lends an undue importance to a few wild-eyed radicals, who are really too few in this country to count. And it does nothing to stop the propaganda at which it is aimed. Without the use of a flag—red, yellow or purple—Yetta Stromberg or anyone else could instruct children in communist doctrines."

Quoting Chief Justice Hughes as having said in his decision that "the maintenance of an opportunity for free political discussion to the end that Government may be responsive to the will of the people and that changes may be obtained by lawful means, an opportunity essential to the security of the republic, is a fundamental principle of our constitutional system." The YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR approves this pronouncement and says: "It has always been a principle of our government that the people have a right to change it if they desired, and to keep it responsive to their will, free discussion is essential."

"I utterly abhor what you say," Voltaire once wrote to Helvetius, whose opinions were about to cause him to go to jail, "but I shall defend to the death your right to say it," quotes the CHATTANOOGA NEWS, following with the remark, "A salutary attitude for Americans to take." The content of the "red flag" menace cannot be combated by depriving those few American citizens who have a learning toward the plans of Soviet Russia of their freedom of speech, a right guaranteed to them by our Constitution. The decision of the nation's high tribunal in the California case is further assurance that speech remains free.

As the LINCOLN STATE JOURNAL puts it: "The Supreme Court holds the law defective in that it interferes with free political thought and discussion. Perhaps the ideas do not correspond with those held by the majority of the citizens of the United States. That does not make it illegal to hold such thoughts. The Constitution was designed to protect this minority."

"Suppression of criticism of the government would, in the end, prove a more serious threat to American freedom than to permit discussion and denunciation," declares the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD, which considers that "if there is not to be freedom of speech in the United States, then democracy is failing."

The CLEVELAND NEWS says: "As far as America has been able to keep the old world from the influence of government, it is opposed to all the traditions and purposes of a free people. This country wants none of it, and has made determined efforts to combat it. In doing so, however, the greatest care should be taken not to infringe on the rights of the people to criticize their government freely to debate public affairs, to remedy faults in the government, to oust corrupt officials."

"The Hughes decision, interpreted for the benefit of laymen, is said to mean that Californians who display the red flag with the intention of urging their fellow-citizens to vote for a communist President, Congressmen, mayor or constable, have a right to do so. But if they wave the flag to incite the destruction of the government by violence, or as a means of spreading propaganda to the latter end, they may be jailed," asserts the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER.

"For one can oppose a government with no design whatever to overthrow it by violence," remarks the SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) REPUBLICAN, which notes that "the Supreme Court gives no encouragement to the use of force or violence." The RICHMOND NEWS LEADER considers that the decision "vindicates American sanity, and in calm words expresses its support of the common-sense doctrine that free speech and free assembly are worth all the strife they may promote."

"The California statute made display of the red flag, as a symbol of opposition to organized government, a felony," remarks the BALTIMORE SUN, "but every realist knows that organized government—any organized government—whatever it may be in theory, in practice it is the politicians who are at the moment in power. Let it once be established," argues The Sun, "that opposition to organized government is a crime, and we should not be far from the doctrine that opposition to the party in power is a crime, for as long as it is in power, it is the government. The theory that it is a felony to be a Democrat when the Republicans are in power, or vice versa, is preposterous, of course, but some things hardly less preposterous."

have been gravely accepted in recent years, so perhaps we should give thanks for this decision, mild as it is."

While advocating freedom of speech, the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS comments: "They must, of course, be made to understand that there is a difference between liberty and license—that the right of free speech does not permit utterances encouraging disturbance of public peace, inciting to crime or threatening overthrow of organized government by unlawful means."

The ANN ARBOR DAILY NEWS makes a suggestion that the Stromberg case might be logically approached from "another angle," saying: "It would appear that the woman forfeited her American citizenship if she, like the children, has sworn allegiance to the Soviet, and therefore it might be suggested that her residence in Moscow would not be looked upon with disfavor by Uncle Sam. There is no legitimate reason for compelling any person preferring the red ensign to dwell beneath the folds of the Stars and Stripes."

Discussing the share that Chief Justice Hughes had in this decision, the ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH offers the judgment: "He has an opportunity, the greatness of which is indicated by the lengths to which we have departed from the dreams of the founders. If he chooses to do so, he can rededicate the nation to its ideals and in so doing making himself, as the founders are, illustrious."

"POWER TRUST" AGAIN PLAYED BY GOVERNOR

speech after the executive committee of the governors conference had deliberated long and earnestly about it. They didn't want anything "controversial" injected into the socially pleasant atmosphere of the party, but the Pennsylvanian held the whip hand. He let it be known that if they didn't let him speak his mind he would issue the speech as a statement and say that "here is what I would have said to the governors if they had not gagged me." Under the circumstances the managers decided it would be better to allow him to speak than to put themselves in the position of not being willing to hear him.

Another "controversial" subject was to be thrown into the conference late today by Governor Albert C. Ritchie (D) of Maryland, who has just as vicious views on prohibition and states' rights as Pinchot has on power control. Ritchie is to preside over this afternoon's round table discussion, and he, like Pinchot, is impatient with the unwillingness of the governors to discuss real issues in their annual gathering.

Originally Governor Pinchot was to have spoken about "Timber Needs of the Future," a thoroughly innocuous subject. It is said he fairly snorted with disgust when he learned of the topic assigned him. He promptly prepared a speech on the utilities by way of answer.

"We are," he said, "facing a new threat to the rule of the people established by the founders of this republic. The public utilities under the threat of the political power of the utilities is the direct result of the failure to regulate them on the one hand, and of their almost incredible expansion on the other."

"Beginning less than two generations ago with nothing, the electric industry has today a total investment of approximately twelve billion dollars. It ranks fourth or fifth among all our industries in invested capital."

"Huge electric utility systems have grown up through the consolidation of merger."

Four Groups in Control
"Today, according to the bureau of applied economics, about 90 per cent of the total electric power generated in the United States is under the domination and control of four major interests."

"And these interests work together harmoniously under a common policy and toward a common end, which is the milking of the public."

The following groups control the power industry, he said:

Morgan, Mellon group—57.12 per cent.
North American group—14.03 per cent.

Harris, Forbes group—12.36 per cent.
Insull group—10.80 per cent.
Municipal and government—2.49 per cent.

"As Pennsylvania and the nation deal with electric power, so shall we and our descendants be free men, master of our own destinies, and our own souls, or we shall be the helpless servants of the most widespread, far-reaching and penetrating monopoly ever known. Either we must control electric power or its masters and owners will control us."

"I have no desire to be unjust to the utilities. The public utilities must be given the same square deal we demand from them for the people."

"But a square deal to public utilities does not require or include the unbridled power to make such profits as they please, to control such public service commissions as might otherwise impede their march to complete commercial dominance, or to own and operate such political organizations in cities, counties, states and nations as they may deem necessary to perpetuate their graft."

"I call it graft, and I am well within my right. Through the device of the write-up the electric utilities alone are today collecting from the people of Pennsylvania interest on much more than one hundred million dollars that never was put into the business."

"Through overcharge in rates the public utilities generally are collecting in Pennsylvania alone far more than fifty million dollars a year over and above a fair return on their investments."

"The question of the public utilities cannot be settled by the individual states acting alone. The effort to settle it by individual states acting alone is hopeless from the start; the problem is essentially national in its character; and it can be solved only under the leadership and by the action of the nation itself."

Fifty Take Tests To Become Drivers

State Highway Patrol Examines Prospective Drivers Today

Approximately 50 persons today took tests from members of the examining detail of the State Highway patrol for the privilege of operating automobiles in the State of Pennsylvania. The tests were conducted in Sampson street, north of the Castle bowl.

Not as many women today took the test as generally and when a highway patrolman was asked as to how the women fare compared to men who take the test he said "they break about even in successfully passing the test."

Relative to accidents along the highways, the patrolman expressed his personal opinion that there are more men who figure in accidents than women but explained: "You know there are more male than women drivers."

The State highway patrol conducts a rigid examination of all persons. The tests are held each Tuesday. The candidates for operator's licenses are examined in the turn they arrive.

LEGISLATION OF LAWRENCE COUNTY MEMBERS PASSED

for the first time all legislation dealing with cities of the third class this being done at the request of the League of Third Class Cities. The bond bills for contractors provides for additional bonds for contractors on public work, to insure the payment of materials and labor used. The county controller bill replaces the present board of auditors with a county controller in counties of the sixth class.

House Legislation.
Representative William McElwee, Jr., of New Wilmington, member from the second district, was able to send four pieces of legislation to the governor's desk in spite of the fact that he was serving his first term. Lawrence county had an able representative in Mr. McElwee and his splendid service in Harrisburg in the past session probably insures his return without opposition.

Being an attorney he gave considerable attention to bills covering legal subjects. One bill amends the practice act of Pennsylvania concerning the answering of statements of claim. Under the present act, each allegation must be denied specifically or else admitted. This despite the fact that sometimes all the evidence concerning the allegations might be under the control of the affiant. The McElwee bill provides that where such a condition exists, the respondent can so state in his answer.

Another bill repeals two ancient acts, one of 1705 and one of 1807. The act of 1705 concerns swine. Under it, owners are required to have rings in the nose of the swine of sufficient size to prevent their rooting up the earth and a yoke on the neck large enough to prevent their breaking through fences. The act of 1807 sets out that any cattle or horses which have strayed, can be impounded by the person on whose property the animal is found, that the town clerk shall then advertise the fact and the animal sold. Present day conditions are such that the law cannot be complied with. The new act sets out the procedure for the disposal of strays, that a constable can notify the owner and upon payment of costs and damages the animal is restored to the owner.

Another bill of Mr. McElwee amends the Workmen's Compensation Act of 1929 so that when appeals are taken from the decision of the Court of Common Pleas, the party involved must be notified as well as the department. Heretofore the prothonotary has had to notify only the department in Harrisburg. Mr. McElwee also handled the appropriation for the Ellwood City hospital.

Election Reform
Election reform suffered somewhat in the past session and when it became apparent that the Election Code could not pass, the Pennsylvania Election Association and the Committee of Seventy of Philadelphia had separate bills prepared, covering various phases of the reforms. One of these concerning a stricter supervision over voting machines and a guarantee that county commissioners must obey the mandate of the voters when machines are authorized. This was practically the only piece of election reform legislation to pass. It was presented by Representative Bart Richards of New Castle at the request of the Pennsylvania Election Association.

Another Richards bill was one which permits the paroling of criminally insane aliens into the hands of the Federal government where a detainee has been lodged against the alien and he is in a Pennsylvania penal institution or criminally insane hospital.

The War Orphans bill so-called, provides an educational aid of $200 per year for orphans of men killed or who died in service during the World War. The grant is for higher education only and intended to aid the orphans through college. An appropriation of $32,000 accompanies the bill if it is passed. This was a bill sponsored originally by the Perry S. Gaston Post, No. 343 American Legion in conjunction with the State Department of the Legion and presented by Richards. He also sponsored the appropriation bill for the Jameson Memorial hospital.

Chicken Thieves Keeping Quiet

Fearful perhaps that the State Police will happen in the vicinity in which they have been accustomed to operate, chicken thieves have been conspicuous by their quietness during the past few weeks. Each night at various hours and on different roads where they are apt to run into thieves, the State Police operate in fast cars hoping to check the epidemic which existed in this section.

Brick Job Gives Pennsy Business

Pearson Plant Order Means Hauling 6,300,000 Bricks Over Rails

The Pennsylvania railroad's job of transporting to Lewisburg, Pa., the output of the Pearson Brick company's plant for the new federal prison there will be—in plain words—the hauling of 6,300,000 single bricks or near that.

Railroad officials figure 18,000 trucks to the load, and it's estimated 350 carloads will be necessary.

Were the order produced at one time and the cars placed into regular trains, the shipment would make up four good-sized freight trains. But the cars are to be taken six or seven at a time, as fast as the local plant produces the bricks.

Thirty Three Cases On Contagion In May
During the month of May there were approximately 33 cases of contagious illness reported to the city department of health. Among the 33 was one case of typhoid. The patient has recovered. According to health bureau attaches, it has not been necessary to refer any of the cases to the physicians who agreed to look after Dr. Steen's work while he is spending a vacation at Clifton Springs. He is expected home this month.

Fireworks Business Reported Improving

Fazzoni Brothers, Local Manufacturers Book A Number Of Good Orders

A decided improvement in the demand for display fireworks was announced by Paul Fazzoni of Fazzoni Brothers or Rebecca street, one of the oldest fireworks manufacturing concerns in western Pennsylvania.

A large order has just been booked by the concern for a fine display to be put on the Fourth of July at one of the larger country clubs of Pittsburgh and there have also been several large orders received and shipped to Chicago and other points by this concern.

As a result of the increasing demand for display fireworks to be used now and at the Fourth of July holiday season, activities at the Fazzoni Brothers plant are on the increase and indications are that the concern will enjoy a fine seasonable business.

Sixty Gardens At Disposal Grounds

Persons Have Planted Gardens On City's Disposal Plant Grounds

No available ground at the city disposal plant, property is going to waste this year, according to Frank Nugent, superintendent, who stated today that at least 69 plots have been converted into gardens where vegetables of all kinds are being grown. The soil is well cultivated and the plot appears entrancing to persons who ride along the improved highway along which the grounds are situated.

Last year persons were allotted space for gardens and there was a rush for space this year. At present there are at least 60 lots spaced off. Most of the gardeners are from the Seventh ward.

Head Injury Makes Folk Punch Drunk

Prize Fighters Liable To Suffer Lasting Brain Hurt

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

A condition known as "punch drunk" occurs in prize fighters who have taken punishment on the head, but may occur in anyone who receives a blow or injury on the head. For some time it was supposed to be a purely mental or neurotic condition, and fighters who exhibited it were often accused of being yellow, but the opportunity for careful study shows that it is due to actual changes in the brain substance, the result usually of small hemorrhages into the brain substance.

In 1928 Gene Tunney was quoted as telling the following story in connection with his training for the Dempsey fight: "I went into a clinch with my head down, something I never do. I plunged forward and my partner's head came up and butted me over the left eye, cutting and dazing me badly. Then he stepped back and swung his right against my jaw with every bit of his power. It landed flush and stiffened me where I stood. That is the last thing I remembered for two days. They tell me that I finished out the round, knocking the man out." According to Tunney, not until the seventh round of his fight with Dempsey was he "nearly normal." From that incident was born my desire to quit the ring forever, the first opportunity that presented itself—but most of all, I wanted to leave the game that had threatened my sanity before I met with an accident in a real fight with six ounces gloves that would permanently hurt my brain."

His fears were well founded. There are always a bunch of old fighters or trainers around a training camp who are victims of this condition. They are described in ring parlance as "cutting paper dolls" or "slug nutty," or "punch drunk," "cookoo" or "coofies."

The changes in the brain are the same as those in forms of concussion. The fluid in the lymph spaces of the brain is made tense—the rigidity of the chest and abdominal muscles. A blow now on the head or jaw forces some of this fluid out of the vessels into the brain substance, causing pressure on the nerve cells and frequently destroying them by pressure. Exactly the same thing has occurred in the ordinary course of civil life when there were falls which involved striking the head, such as falls from horses or motor cars, etc.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
Mrs. J. C. B.: "I am writing you regarding a heated argument I had this evening in regard to tuberculosis. My brother and his wife and two girls, aged 9 and 11, are entering the wife's cousin, who has tuberculosis. I argue that he had no business spending three days in my brother's home. Brother said it was not contagious only when the patient was coughing. I said it was contagious through glasses, cups, etc. After a patient is dismissed from a hospital, pronounced cured, is it safe to have meals in his house? Is tuberculosis ever cured, or just retarded?"

Answer: Tuberculosis is certainly transmitted from a patient with an active process, especially to children. The question of coughing is not a good criterion as to whether an individual is contagious or not. It is very difficult for a sanitarian or institution to say definitely that a patient is so completely healed that he can never convey the disease. There is no question that tuberculosis is often completely cured.

Local Business Club Is Given Lake Cottage

Cottage Donated To B. P. W.
Club In Memory Of
Mrs. Rae Muirhead

EIGHTY ATTEND
LAKEWOOD PICNIC

Madame Mary Laudner, Of Paris, France, Gives
Address Monday
Evening

A message read by Miss Nancy Bechtol at the Business and Professional Women's club final meeting of the season was a splendid surprise and climax to an evening of enjoyment for the club members at Lakewood, Monday night.

It was a letter from Miss Mabelle Muirhead and Dr. Elizabeth McLaughry, of New Wilmington, asking their associate club members to accept a cottage at Lakewood Beach in memory of Mrs. Rae Muirhead, who founded and organized the first business girls' club in New Castle.

The assemblage of eighty members, attending the picnic at the cottage of Mrs. J. M. Butler at Lakewood, were enthusiastic over the generosity of Miss Muirhead and Dr. McLaughry and voted to refer to the gift henceforth as the "Rae Muirhead Cottage". It will be used this summer.

June 1 was the anniversary of Mrs. Muirhead's death. During her lifetime she had devoted much of her time to the interests of business girls and many of the present members of the New Castle Business and Professional Women's club are former members of the Rae Muirhead Business Girls' club.

Another feature of Monday evening's picnic at Lakewood was the address given by Madame Mary Laudner, president and founder of the French Federation of Business and Professional Women.

Madame Laudner is the guest of Dr. Mildred Rogers in New Castle, having been invited to United States for a number of important business women's functions, including the state and national conventions.

After the picnic dinner, the 80 club members gathered together on the front lawn and heard the short but interesting talk given by this delightful and energetic French woman.

"I would like my French women to be here this evening," Madame Laudner began. "I would marvel at the wonderful spirit of the group, and would have enjoyed this picnic event greatly. They are not very accustomed to work in groups, as yet, having confined most of their activities to the home and family. If they could attend one or two meetings here, they would spread the idea all through France."

Madame Laudner gave an interesting account of the birth of the Paris Business and Professional Women's club a year ago, starting with a group of seven women and growing almost overnight to several hundred members. She told of being inspired by Miss Lena Madessin Phillips, the international president, and of the present activities of the Paris club.

"During my stay in this country," the speaker said, "I hope to help build understanding between the business women of different nations. I want to arrange to accommodate the American delegates to France this year in private homes at Paris, so that they will have a better insight of the French people, their homes, etc. This cannot be gotten in hotels. I also want to arrange some method of exchanging business women between the countries, if possible."

Madame Laudner expressed hope that Paris, France, would become the international European center for business and professional women.

At the conclusion of the address, Madame Laudner was presented with a gift by Miss Nancy Bechtol, president, in behalf of the club.

During the business session, Mrs. Sara Sankey McCune and Helen Hinkson were elected delegates to the district convention at Conneaut this coming Saturday, with Miss Bess Gailey and Miss Mary Scherger as alternates. Madame Laudner will be a speaker at this convention and quite a number of local women are attending.

Miss Jeannette Hutton was elected auditor of the treasurer's books. Miss Edythe Dunlap, speaking for the club, presented Miss Bechtol, retiring president, with a beautiful silver tea set, in remembrance of Miss Bechtol's very efficient services during her two years of club presidency.

Arrangements for the picnic had been made by the social and recreation committee, of which Mrs. J. M. Butler is chairman, with Mrs. Nesbitt, Mrs. Ella Wolford, Clara Balch, Helen Burchart and Maurine Chaplin. Credit for a most perfect evening goes to those committee members and their most efficient chairman.

Among those present were: Maude Mitchell, Helen Urmon, Miriam Cornman, Martha McIlwain, Helen E. Wilson, Bernice Swank, Alice B. Joyce, Mary K. Guy, Nance Pugh, Lila E. Strayer, Ethel Hunt, Anna J. Benson, Kathryn Winter, Grace Sankey, Ethel J. Pitzer, Deaconess Bechtol, Pearl Hockenberry, Elma Rickel, Florence Scott, Hazel Armstrong, Ruth Zerner Philpott, Helen Hinkson, Mary Tewell.

Rosena McGurk, Alice Mitchell, Lucille Emery, Sue Cramer, Mary Scherger, Mabel Ballard, Emily Rice, Edythe Dunlap, Elizabeth Mendonhall, Mary E. Wilson, Marguerite Cordes, Aileen Leslie, Wlad Smith, Jean Hillard, Nancy Hillard, Naomi Raney, Verlee Armstrong, Mrs. Foskitt, Kathryn Hite, Adda Smiley, Mrs. Anna McGurk, Bertha Smith, Eva Failer, Katherine B. Lyons, Helen Dana White.

Nancy Bechtol, Janet Weddell, Marie Biddle, Madame Mary Laudner, Mrs. Alice Rogers, Pearl Hutchinson, Grace Scollard, Jessie Jenkins, Emma J. Dods, Fannie Forsyth, Grace Ackerman, Bess Gailey, Genevieve Riddle, Helena M. Burekard, Gertrude Riddle, Mathilda Coley, Genevieve Houston, Mary Ramsey, Della A. Glen, Mrs. Nesbitt, Ella Wolford, Mrs. Briller, Ruth Weir, Sara Hickok and Janet Kissinger.

Hope To Provide Outing At Y Camp For 100 Boys

When Fred Rentz presented the twenty-six acres of beautiful camp ground on the Slippery Rock to the Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association several years ago, he said that it would please him very much if each year twenty-five boys from the poorer homes of New Castle could have the joy of spending a week at the camp each year.

This generous thought of Mr. Rentz made a great appeal to the men of the Board and the Secretaries of the local Y, and for that reason each year a fund is raised to take these needy boys for a week's outing. Last year fifty boys were taken to the camp for this special week and this year General Secretary Meermans and Boy's Work Secretary Thomas are trying to find sufficient funds to take one hundred boys for this week's outing.

As in the past the Association provides a cook and supervision of the boys and also all camp equipment to take care of the boys during the week but good friends of needy boys are asked to provide funds for food for these boys.

Up to this time there has been a splendid response to the appeal which has been made for this work and provision has been made for fifty-eight boys. The following organizations and individuals have agreed to help with this good work: Phalanx Fraternity, Upratasa Fraternity, Men's Bible Class First M. E. Elizabeth McCreery, Chas. Bright, Mary L. King, Barnes-Snyder Motor Co., David E. Nessler, R. C. Love, H. D. Boyles, Carl E. Paisley, Jack Boyles, and Chas. Cripps.

If one hundred boys are to enjoy this week at camp, there is need of more funds and the Association would be glad to hear from any organization or individual who would care to have a part in this good work.

Welsh News

By W. A. (BRYTHON) JOHNS

The Emmanuel Baptist church had Rev. E. W. Jenkins from the Rescue Mission to fill the pulpit last Sunday evening, May 31. And at the end of the service he offered himself to become the future pastor of the church. The church will vote on his proposition next Sunday evening.

The church has been without a pastor for over 12 months and in that time many changes have taken place. The Welsh people and all American people of this community and other communities are very proud and thankful for the wonderful good work that our friend, Rev. R. T. Williams, pastor of the First Congregationalist church, is performing for this day. There is no one who can beat him in the pulpit and on the platform of the doings of our dear country like last Saturday when he took part in the proceedings of our program of Dedication Day at the Capitol theater.

He was the great master of the situation and spoke from experience as a common soldier in the British army. He served four years in the World war. So he had plenty of experience to tell the people and he did everything with great effect and pleased the people as well.

We had the pleasure of having Deacon David Rees, father of Arthur J. Rees, East Washington street at the prayer meeting of the Emmanuel Baptist church last Sunday morning.

We are very glad of the good news that Mrs. Mary Edmunds, Park avenue, is improving in her condition.

An electric washer made for the future as well as the present. Damp-dries the clothes without a wringer and empties the waste water with a pump—all done electrically, leaving you refreshed and happy. ## DURANT SELECTIONS

Will Durant the Dumbbell's Friend has written a new book, Simon &amp; Schuster of "Trader Horn" fame published it—if you get what I mean.

Durant lists the world's ten "greatest minds"—Confucius, Plato, Aristotle—that kind of list.

He omits Christ, as a "visionary," and does not include Master Will Shakespeare, who, he says, "must be classed as only a secondary thinker."

Yass am!

ADD WONDERS OF MACHINE AGE:

A five-ton truck which replaced a dozen Missouri mules in the service of a New York company took on most of the ornery characteristics of its predecessors, first shaking up and scaring a train-load of commuters and then tying up an important division of a railroad for more than 15 minutes.

TRANSIENT ERROR

A New York commentator on an ankle-excision round town speaks of the "buses on Broadway lined up at the curb with two or three sad people waiting to go to Chinatown." The "two or three sad people" in these buses are not waiting to go to Chinatown. They are come-ons, paid 50 cents an hour by the bus proprietors to lure customers. People are diffident about climbing into an empty sight-seeing bus. The presence of the "two or three sad people" makes things easier. When the bus begins to fill up the "sucker decoys" unostentatiously slip out to take up their vigil elsewhere.

REFRESHING COP STORY

The affection that some New York traffic cops have for their horses is remarkable.

One of these cops who had helped in clearing up a policeman's murder was offered promotion to the detective department.

"Commissioner," said the cop, "I'd rather stick to my horse."

His name was sent to the honor board, promotion remaining open to him.

LABOR LOST

An out-of-town newspaper man, whom we'll call John Smith, after a vain tour of local city rooms in quest of a job, hired a man to carry a sign which said: "Hire John Smith." He posted the sandwich man in front of the newspaper office he desired to make a connection with. The city editor, entering and leaving the building, would be sure to see the sign, send out to ascertain who John Smith was, and that would be that.

Unfortunately the city editor always used a rear door entering and leaving the building—and thus another genius was lost to the profession.

THE CURE

The late Andrew Mack visited the office of a specialist some years ago. He wasn't feeling well and feared the worse. After a careful examination the specialist prescribed a regimen. Among other things the actor was to run around the reservoir in Central Park every morning, on his toes.

After two months, Mack told the doctor he felt much better and inquired the fee. "A thousand dollars," he was told. When the check was handed over the specialist tore it up.

"Andrew," he said, "there wasn't anything the matter with you. I told you to do that to make you stop thinking of yourself."

CHAPEAU CHAPPIE

One of the largest of the Fifth avenue department stores has acquired the services of a male milliner—a languid young American who works with such ease and dexterity that hats seem literally to leap from his hands. Before becoming a milliner he created decorative sets for the theatre.

His models have a decided French flair and young women also flappers not so young, are blazing a trail to the millinery department of that particular shop, departing in a benign bask of satisfaction.

To Occur Saturday

This Year "Treasure" Will Not Be Hidden At Association As In Former Seasons

The annual "Treasure hunt" of the Y. M. C. A. midget and Junior B classes will be held Saturday.

Nearly 300 of these boys are enrolled at the association and are expected to participate in the hunt. Under logs, stones, in unexpected nooks, the treasures and the numbers leading to the treasure will be found to be hidden.

This year the "treasure" will not be hidden at the Y. M. C. A. The hunt will start there, but a number of "treasures" will be along the road, with the grand prize at the end of the trail. It will be worth while to every boy, who is a member of the "Y" or his chum to get in the hunt.

Following the hunt the boys will take a swim in the "Y" pool.

Wear, Tear and Water

HAVE you ever thought about the properties a floor varnish must possess to be a good floor varnish—to withstand the abuse to which it is exposed?

It must be hard enough, when dry, to remain under the pressure of a heavy piece of furniture, without showing a depression. It must be elastic enough to act as a cushion for the pounding of countless footsteps, without breaking. It must be tough enough to resist the scraping of moving furniture and it must be unharmed by water—hot or cold.

If it has all of these merits and in addition, provides a beautiful finish—then it is a good floor varnish.

We offer LOWE BROTHERS NEPTUNITE FLOOR VARNISH—a really good floor varnish.

Large Buildings In Pittsburgh Halted
By Strike(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, June 2.—With all steel work stopped on three large and several smaller building construction projects in Pittsburgh, leaders of the Bridge Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers today awaited action by the Building Trades Employment Association in the strike called by the union yesterday.

The strikers' version of the walk-out, announced by J. P. Kelly, union chairman, said it came as the result of negotiations in which the employers demanded the men surrender their right of unloading and handling materials in construction work.

Previously, all materials unloaded and hoisted to position in buildings under construction were handled by members of the union. Kelly said the employers proposed to place this work in the hands of laborers.

Wage increase demands had been agreed to by the employers but the strikers pointed out that in relieving the union men of the handling of materials 37 per cent of the employed workers would be eliminated.

The union was successful in its demand for a wage boost from $1.50 to $1.65 an hour. Laborers would receive 40 to 60 cents per hour.

Lewis, H. J. Cullford and Emrys Lewis. The trip to this city was made on Friday morning, the entire party arriving here Friday night. The party making the trip on the Berengaria had a most delightful trip in crossing the Atlantic. Mrs. Cullford and daughters and Miss Gittens will make their home in this city in the future.

It's about time for a Digest poll to find out which grievance makes the most people sorest.

Henry Ford and Edsel Ford with the First Ford car and the Twenty Millionth Ford. This picture was taken on Henry Ford's estate in Dearborn, Mich., a short time after the Twenty Millionth car came off the assembly line at the Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company.

The twenty millionth Ford car, symbolic of one man's contribution to world history and the development of American industry, will visit New Castle enroute from Detroit on a transcontinental tour. Expected to arrive late Wednesday afternoon the twenty-millionth Ford will be met at the city limits where Route 42 enters New Castle, and escorted to Castle Motor Co. where it will be placed on exhibition. During the evening there will be free showings of a motion picture of the Ford Motor Car Company.

Assembled in the presence of Henry and Edsel Ford, the twenty-millionth Ford left the Ford Motor Company's Rouge plant in Dearborn, Mich., on April 14. Following the brief ceremonies at the final assembly line, and with Henry Ford at the wheel, the car was driven to Mr. Ford's home, where its meeting with the first Ford, produced in 1893, was recorded for future generations in motion pictures. Mayor W. H. Gillespie, and other well known dignitaries will welcome the 20,000,000th Ford to this city.

Its tour of the country completed, the twenty-millionth Ford will be returned to Greenfield Village for preservation near the First Ford—the "gasoline buggy" in which Henry Ford astounded his neighbors and demoralized horse traffic when he chugged noisily through Detroit's cobbled streets at the dizzy speed of nearly 20 miles an hour.

The first Ford—built in 1893 and one of the first three automobiles the world had ever seen—odd, indeed, by comparison with its 1931 descendant resembled a buggy mounted on bicycle wheels and its little two cylinder engine boasted four horsepower. Its gasoline tank held three gallons and its uncomfortable seat held two people. Mr. Ford was given a verbal permit, by the mayor thus becoming the world's first licensed chauffeur.

Such was the precursor of the long line of Fords that have since revolutionized the automotive industry, made the automobile a commonplace within the reach of almost every family and tremendously aided the development of good roads systems everywhere.

In December 1915, more than 1,000,000 Fords had been produced. Thereafter, as a result of the development of Ford manufacturing methods and processes which have since been adopted as standards of efficiency and economy for industry the world over, the total production reached 2,000,000 in June, 1917; 5,000,000 in May 1921; 10,000,000 in June 1924 and 15,000,000 in May, 1927.

Italian American
Citizens League
Holds Big MeetingStirring Addresses Are Made By Many Speakers On This Occasion

More than six hundred people crowded King Humbert Hall to capacity on Sunday afternoon, when a mass meeting was held for the purpose of giving the directors and others an opportunity of showing what is being accomplished by the league and to give the Italian American Citizens of the district a fuller understanding of the aims and purposes of the Italian American League under the auspices of which the meeting was being held.

Attorney Joseph Leta Jr. as president of the board of directors and organization presided and carried out the affairs of the meeting in a manner that proved agreeable to all. The meeting was started with the large audience rising and singing the Star Spangled Banner led by Anthony Basile and his band.

President Leta in his opening remarks told of how mankind had discovered the necessity of grouping themselves into tribes, first to protect themselves against the wild beasts and later for their general welfare. He then pointed out how various groups from different countries found it necessary to emigrate into the territory of other countries and how as a result of different customs, habits and language, they were handicapped in establishing themselves as an integral part of the new communities. He then pointed out certain prejudices, which had to be overcome and how the Italian American Citizens had to solve the same problem that confronted those who came here from Germany, Ireland and other countries. The organization of which he is chairman, he said, is intended as a medium of the same ends for Italian Americans, as had been accomplished by similar organizations of other nationalities. He drew attention to the fact that Rev. Fr. Nicola DeMita was the founder of the organization and that he had done more to improve the welfare of Italian Americans than any other individual present. The organization was not, he said, to over-power the rest of the people but rather to enlighten its members to their duties as American citizens and the necessity of intelligently exercising the right of franchise and to create a better understanding with the rest of the community.

Among the speakers of the afternoon was C. H. Young.

Michael Covelli, vice president of the organization, called attention to the burden of the directors and to the humiliation that they have to submit in some instances in rendering public service.

Joseph Paglia, president of the House of Savoy and a director, then spoke briefly and invited all to co-operate with the directors.

A delegation was present from Hillsdale and also from Ellwood City and President Leta called upon Antonio Navarro, a school director in Hillsville who pointed out the necessity of co-operation.

Dr. Warren V. Massara was then called and gave a stirring talk in which he stated that the purpose of the League is not to run the other people but to obtain a square deal for people of Italian descent. Sheriff Frank Johnston spoke and said that the Italian American Citizens had been of great assistance in electing him and that he had recognized them by appointing Andy Venditto as a deputy. Anthony Villani then spoke of the good work of the organization and called on Andy Venditto. Mr. Venditto spoke in praise of Sheriff Johnston and thanked those present for having made it possible through their influence for him to occupy his position.

President Leta then called upon the directors to stand and they were accorded great applause. The meeting closed with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

President Leta took occasion in closing to thank King Humbert Society for the use of the hall and Anthony Basile and his band.

The directors present were John Fair, Maria Frabotta, Patay Micco, Dr. W. V. Massara, P. D. Malizia, Jacob DiFonso, James Christofano, Archie Cumo, Anthony Villani, John

Spanish Republic Not To Recognize Nobility Titles

Beginning Today All Titles
Of Nobility Will Be Unrecognized By Republic

By THOMAS A. LOATZA
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

MADRID, June 2.—Beginning today the provisional republic of Spain will refuse to recognize all titles of the nobility.

About 2,600 aristocrats will be allowed to use their titles in private life, but will not be allowed to use their family names when signing official papers, it was announced.

The national assembly, which will be elected late this month, will determine what disposition will be made of the titles of the exiled king Alfonso and his family when he holds its first session on July 14.
The date for the convocation also was determined at the cabinet meeting.

Ban on Exports
The government will lose about $300,000 in title taxes by its refusal to grant titles. The monarchy taxed each titled aristocrat during the year.

Fears that the exportation of certain foodstuffs might cause prices to rise caused the government to place a ban on such exports. The unsteady condition of the peseta also forced the government to take action to stabilize the markets.

who charged what he terms "a conspiracy to defy enforcement of state projection room regulations".

The committee was comprised of
John Brogan, president of local 451;
Norman D. Freeborne, business agent; Walter Lichtenstein and D.
S. Kepler. Kepler is from Sharon.
The other three are members of the

New Law Requires Official Inspection Of All Used Cars

Approval Of All Used Cars Required Before They Can Be Resold

Changes in the Pennsylvania Motor Vehicle Code enacted by the recent session of the Legislature make it more complete than ever before and eliminate many practices which have been obnoxious to the motoring public, the Pittsburgh Motor Club announced today with the release of an outline of measures passed.

The entire system of compulsory inspection has been revised and strengthened and will go into effect with application for registrations in 1933, officers of the club stated. One provision makes official inspection necessary before used cars can be sold to new owners. It is expected to reduce the number of "junk" automobiles and will prevent the purchase and use of "rambling wrecks" which are now bought for $10 or $15 and turned loose on the highways to menace other traffic.

Habitual violators of motor laws will run the risk of losing both driver's licenses and state registrations under the revised code. Also, drivers who do not carry operator's licenses may be fined $10 and costs or placed in jail for five days for first offense. This penalty formerly applied only to the second offense.

Solicitation of "car watching," a practice which has victimized auto owners in the past, is prohibited on or near the highways. The "hitchhiker" is required to stay off the travelled portion of the highway when soliciting rides. This provision does not prevent solicitation of rides but establishes a fine of $2 or one day in jail for anyone standing on the roadway seeking lifts.

Other provisions establish uniformity and state control of signs and signals; state regulation of impounding and storage of cars by municipal police; and give the right of way to pedestrians who have started to cross streets on green signals. A proposed change in the code which would have permitted arrest on view

Commencement Held At Geneva

Prof. William McCracken Of Western State Teachers College Gives Address

Over Hundred Students Receive Diplomas In 83rd Annual Commencement

The 83rd annual commencement of Geneva college was held today in the college auditorium, Beaver Falls. Long before the hour of 10 a. m. the crowds began to assemble until the auditorium was packed ere the hundred or more graduates filed onto the platform and into the seats reserved for them in the center of the building. The music was in charge of Prof. Pierre DeBacker, head of the violin department in Geneva, who with other members of his Pittsburgh ensemble delightfully entertained the large and appreciative audience.

Prof. William McCracken, Ph. D. of Western State Teachers college, Kalamazoo, Mich., popular professor of chemistry at Geneva in the nineties, was the commencement orator, discussing the subject of leadership. Among others the following points were stressed by him: "My thesis is that there being distress and unrest everywhere, the demand for the highest type of leadership was never more insistent than it is today. That in spite of all the strides of education in our own country, there is as yet no great ability on the part of the people generally to appraise propaganda properly and winnow out the truth from its accompanying mass of chaff and that we need leaders who can do this great service for us."

"Among the agencies to which we look for help in this crisis none stand higher than our colleges and universities. That these agencies aside from giving their graduates a careful mental training, also more and more consciously direct their efforts to turning out men and women who are not only capable but who are socially minded as well, and who, realizing how much society has done for them in making their education possible, are minded to make a return in service insofar as they can."

"My contention is that clear thinking is absolutely essential to leadership and that no education is worthy of the name that does not equip the student with a brain polished and sharpened and at the control of its owner. In other words, the brain is a tool and education should fit it to do efficient work. "I advance the scientific method as man's best solution of the problem to date and point to the present state of science and its contributions to our well being as the best evidence of the success of this method. Reference is made to the difficulties inherent in this method and especially to the point that in using it one must always divest himself of any preconceived ideas on any subject under discussion. In other words, the importance of an open mind is insisted on."

"The graduates are reminded that they have thousands of opportunities of success now; that big business comes to college halls to enlist their aid, but that since the age is swift and competition keen, each one must be prepared to work long and hard and be able to deliver the goods."

"And finally that success does not mean making the front page, or an enlarged bank account or any of the

Dinner Stories

PLAIN LUCK

It was somewhere out in Flanders, with shells pouring down like hail. Screaming shrapnel rent the air, and the big fellows tore huge holes out of the earth. Patrick O'Reilly was advancing. An exceptionally large shell whistled directly over his shoulder to blast a yawning crater not ten feet in front of him. Patrick O'Reilly whistled.

"Close," he muttered. "A little closer, and I'd 'a' fallen in an' broke me neck."

But why compare conditions with 1929. A sober man can't gauge his health by comparing his present feelings to the way he felt when he was stewed.

Of particular interest is the replica of the old Second Church in which the Synod of Pittsburgh met October 24, 1831, to form the Western Foreign Missionary Society. The display of historical documents, maps and paintings are inside the church.

In addition to this are the booths of the various countries in which mission stations are maintained, as well as the national stations, with some customs of the country duplicated.

Golden Wedding Event Observed

Mr. and Mrs. S. Y. Douds Observe Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary

ELLWOOD CITY, June 2.—Mr. and Mrs. S. Y. Douds were delightful host and hostess to a large number of relatives and friends at their golden wedding anniversary Monday. There were 150 people present at the different hours of the day.

The home on Spring avenue presented one gorgeous spectacle in its various colored spring flowers. The flowers were in profusion about the home. Mrs. Douds received a great surprise as she was sorting a large bouquet of roses in a basket when she found a five-dollar gold piece.

There were 25 covers laid at the dinner which was served at 1 o'clock. All late members were immediately ushered into the dining room and served. Following the dinner a charming reception was enjoyed by those present. A social time of games, contests and chat occupied the attention of the guests.

John Wilson, a brother of Mrs. Douds, was a special guest on the occasion. Also there were guests present from Beaver, New Brighton, New Castle, Aliquippa, Baden and Ellwood City.

The beautiful wedding cake in the center of the table with its golden candles and gold chiffon ribbon immediately attracted the attention of the guests upon entering the dining room.

Something to Look Back On Tureen Dinner

Event At Church

At least one business enjoyed a revival and a welcome relief from the world-wide depression as a result of the courtiers held at Buckingham Palace by King George and Queen Mary. The court photographers of London had a busy time as hundreds of charming women flocked to their studios to be photographed in their official court finery. Photo above shows Miss Audrey Barrett, beautiful American "deb," posing in the gown she wore when presented to the British rulers.

Also plans to raise money were discussed at this time. The money will be used to redecorate the nursery of the Ellwood City Hospital which they had provided for upon its building.

Stevenson told of the work the society is doing with the Hungarian Mission here. It has started a Sunday school and other organizations. Miss Marjorie Streeter concluded the meeting with a piano solo.

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—Sixty miles of the Reading railway system, electrified at a cost of more than $21,000,000, will be placed in full operation by the middle of July, officials of the road announced here. The portion of the Reading lines on which electricity will replace steam power, according to E. D. Osterhout, passenger traffic manager, will include "electrified service between Philadelphia and West Trenton, Philadelphia, Lansdale and Doylestown, and between Philadelphia and Hatboro."

Both decreases in fare and more frequent service will feature start of electrified service on the lines, C. H. Ewing, vice-president of the Reading said. Seventy-eight trains daily will be run in the area in place of the 52 now operating. A weekly pass system of fares for commuters will also be started, Ewing said.

Some Job Naming Borough Streets

Allentown City Engineer Finds It Tough Job To Name Streets

(International News Service) ALLENTOWN, Pa. June 2.—When the state supreme court approved annexation of Mountainville borough by the city of Allentown, it created plenty of work for City Engineer Earl W. Meckley here.

A number of streets in Mountainville, some named some nameless, must be given fitting appellations and Engineer Meckley admits he has a job on his hands.

The name of a street, he points out, does much to give the thoroughfare its character. It sticks to the street; identifies it and plays a prominent part in the lives of residents. Either they like it and are proud of it or they dislike it and resent it.

And street names, Meckley believes, should be plain, easy to remember but not trite. All of which complicates his problem. For it might be easy to perpetuate historic names, a common device, provided they are easy to pronounce. Historic names around here, however, have a tendency to run to things like "Hokenlaugus" or "Kolapechka," and wouldn't be the easiest for strangers to remember.

"What's in a name?" is a question Meckley is asking himself much these days. And he has his own answer: "Plenty."

STATE PREPARING TO RUSH ROAD PROGRAM

(From News Bureau)
(State Capital)
HARRISBURG, June 2.—Despite weather that has been much more unfavorable for road building than a year ago the highway department is taking every precaution to have its annual program completed on schedule. The department during the recent season has approximately 250 miles of road to be financed through federal aid. All that mileage must be completed by September 1.

Since road building operations were started this season less than 25 miles of highway have been completed. Of that amount 18.14 miles were completed under contract and 4.71 miles by department forces. Some of the mileage completed under contract was on projects awarded late last year.

In order to insure completion of the federal-aid projects on time the department is insisting that contractors have extra equipment on the job. The contracts for these federal-aid jobs were awarded during April and May so that only the preliminary work has been done up to the present. During the next few weeks the surfacing will begin and the mileage completed is expected to swing upward at a higher rate.

The department is preparing to take over 20,000 miles of township road on August 15. Little work can be done on these roads between that date and fall. The department is and 1933. On years when the legislature meets the road building preparations always are slow in getting started. This year was no exception. The department, however, is prepared to push its work during the remainder of the construction season.

DALLAS, Texas, June 2.—Night baseball is proving so successful that club owners are predicting it all over the Texas League next year.

Only Umbrellas Remain Unclaimed

No articles of much value were found on local street cars or busses during May, according to Dispatcher McKee, who stated that the next "recovery day" would be July 1. At present, McKee said today, there are several umbrellas which were left on cars and busses.

It is nothing unusual for street car and bus riders to leave packages, books and other articles in seats. They are collected by employees, turned over to the dispatchers and returned upon proof to owners.

2. The Missouri Fur Trade—The First Expedition

(Copyright, 1931, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

IN 1805 THE MISSOURI FUR COMPANY SENT ITS FIRST TRADING AND TRAPPING EXPEDITION UP THE RIVER. THE LARGE FLEET OF KEELBOATS, LOADED WITH TRADING GOODS, WAS MANNED BY 150 MEN, HEAVILY ARMED, A FORCE STRONG ENOUGH TO INSURE ITS SAFE PASSAGE THROUGH THE LAND OF THE WARLIKE DAKOTAS.

ON THE WAY THE EXPEDITION PLANTED A NUMBER OF SMALL TRADING POSTS ON THE BANKS OF THE RIVER. THE MAIN BODY PUSHED ON BEYOND THE MOUTH OF THE YELLOWSTONE AND IN THE FALL OF 1805 WENT INTO WINTER QUARTERS AMONG THE CROWS, A RICH AND POWERFUL TRIBE.

THE NEXT SPRING (1810) ANDREW HENRY LED A PARTY OF TRAPPERS UP TO THE VICINITY OF THREE FORKS, NEAR THE HEAD OF THE MISSOURI, WHERE HE PITCHED A CAMP. THE COUNTRY WAS SWARMING WITH GAME, AND THE TRAPPERS QUICKLY GATHERED A LARGE QUANTITY OF VALUABLE PELTS.

BUT TROUBLE WAS BREWING. THE PRESENCE OF THE TRAPPERS AND THIS WHOLESALE SLAUGHTER OF THE GAME ANGERED THE BLACKFEET, WHO ROAMED NORTH OF THE RIVER. GRIMLY THEY WAITED FOR A CHANCE TO CATCH THE WHITE MEN OFF GUARD AND DESTROY THEM.

Brooklyn And Giants To Get Test In West

St. Louis And Chicago Loom As Dangerous Opponents To Eastern Teams

IMPORTANT GAMES WILL BE PLAYED

By LES CONKLIN
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 2.—Intercontinental warfare will be renewed with the National League's eastern representatives inaugurating their first western trip and the western clubs in the American League making their bow before eastern fans.

The National League's schedule for the next week puts New York and Brooklyn, the loop's strongest eastern teams, against St. Louis and Chicago, the most powerful western contenders. The Giants will endeavor to wrest the league lead from the Cardinals in a four-game series starting in St. Louis today while the Cubs and Robins, both traveling at top speed, come to trips at Chicago. On Saturday the Giants will move to Chicago, with Brooklyn invading the mound city.

Will Set Tests
New York and Brooklyn are scheduled to play more than thirty consecutive games against western opposition. Returning from their first tour west of the Alleghenies, they immediately will begin home stands against St. Louis, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati.

The Cardinals and Cubs for some time have been feasting on Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, the two tail-end outfields. If they falter against stronger opposition during the next five weeks, they will find themselves in the midst of a four-cornered dog fight for the lead with New York and Brooklyn.

Sam Bruce Wants New Chance Here

If He Fights He Must Post $200 Certified Check With Havey Boyle

Harry McCoy, manager of Sam Bruce, Buffalo boxer, was given a hearing yesterday by Havey Boyle commissioner, commonwealth athletic commission, as the result of his failure to fight Henry Firpo here.

Boyle ordered McCoy to post a certified check for $200 with him and to fight Firpo at a date to be selected by the Castle Bowl, providing the bowl desires to stage the bout.

Directors of the bowl will meet today and decide whether or not they want Bruce to fight Firpo. According to the directors the bowl lost about $700 through his failure to appear here.

It developed from testimony given by Ed Fritz, matchmaker, that Bruce had been properly signed and had accepted a bout with Firpo and had failed to appear on the original date.

McCoy said rain caused a postponement of the Bruce-Indrisano fight at Boston and it was set back to the same night as Bruce was scheduled to battle Henry Firpo here.

The bowl claimed it had a priority date and Bruce should have appeared here. McCoy claims that no difference which way he moved he would bring on a suspension for Bruce.

McCoy was given a date a week later and when it arrived Bruce fought LaFaire at Boston and another substitute bout, the McCoy-Firpo tangle was staged at the bowl, which like the Rodam-Fields bout, proved a loser for the bowl.

The Buffalo boys' manager claimed that he had not accepted the second date, and Fritz maintained he had and pointed out that McCoy had promised Bruce would leave Boston the morning after the fight to reach New Castle. It was pointed out it was bound to the original contract.

Boyle tried to effect a compromise by asking McCoy if he (Boyle) could give his personal word to the Castle Bowl that Bruce would fight Firpo. McCoy was ordered to post a $200 certified check with Boyle.

Fritz told Boyle and McCoy that while the Bruce-Firpo battle would be a good fight he would await a conference with bowl directors before he would state definitely if the bowl cared to stage the return fight.

The directors will meet today or Wednesday and decide if they want Bruce to fight Firpo. It is known some of them do not, as they took two chances and on neither occasion did Bruce appear.

McCoy promised that if Bruce were not suspended and allowed to fight Bruce would come here, select a training camp in the rural district and train here. A decision will be announced later by the club.

Don't "Hit" Ball At Top Of Swing, Says Grove, Discussing Midiron

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer
NUMBER 24

The average golfer is so interested in seeing the execution of his own shot that he will pop his head up to follow the ball—a habit that develops a thousand faults.

Firstly, this type of golfer never gives his midiron a chance to do the work. He starts to hit the ball from the top of his swing rather than wait for the club to get through the ball.

Note in the illustration just how far the club will travel in comparison to the arms and hands. This ratio is better than five times the distance for the clubhead than the hands.

The right wrist is put into play from an angle of 45 degrees. All the work is done against the left side, which means holding the left side intact until the shot is completed.

The average player has the notion that the weight is pushed out after the ball.

The midiron is arm and wrist play and should be practiced as such until the player can put the punch into the shot, especially on the down swing.

The average player has the idea that he will never get into the ball with an easy backswing and a wrist motion, but a bit of practice will gain confidence in this manner of play combined with accuracy.

Next: Finish of Midiron.

HAPPENINGS IN WORLD OF SPORT

Central Press Sports Editor

Good golf guesses would be that an American will win the British open championship at Carnoustie and that the British Ryder cup team will triumph in the biennial matches at Columbus, O., late this month.

Such an outcome of the two British-American professional links wars remaining on the book, isn't as queer as it looks when the different golfing temperament of the pros of the two nations is considered.

The average American star professional dislikes match play and concentrates on medal golf. The British boys like match play, and therefore are not so keen on the medal angle of the game.

The British open is medal play the Yankee's favorite pastime. The Ryder cup tussle is decided by match play, the Briton's game.

This is not unproved theory. Recent international golf history illustrates how the pros of the two nations compare in both match and medal golf.

The Ryder cup matches date from 1926 when an American team met a British team informally. Three times the pros of the two nations have battled in match play and Great Britain has won twice. Ryder cup matches, it may be noted here, are held on alternate years.

Here are the results:

1926—Great Britain won, 13½ to 1½.

1927—United States won, 9½ to 1½.

1929—Great Britain won, 7 to 5.

In the same period 1926-1930 American golfers have won every British open title. Bobby Jones triumphed in 1926, 1927 and 1930 and Walter Hagen in 1928 and 1929. While Jones was not a pro his golf record indicates he, too, preferred medal play to match.

However, if the British pros are adept at match team play, the same cannot be said of British amateurs.

In the six clashes between British and American amateurs for the Walker cup, which was put in competition, also biennially, in 1929, the United States has emerged victorious six times.

Of course, Bobby Jones was a great help in beating the British simon pures so many times, but there is quite a string of other Yankee amateurs who have never been beaten in Walker cup play.

Jones leads the undefeated Yankee Walker cup players with five wins. Other undefeated Americans are Watts Gunn, George Von Elm, Harrison Johnston, George Rotan, George Voight, Don Moe, Fred Wright and Dr. O. F. Willing.

Bob Cardiner, Chick Evans, Jess Guilford, Roland Mackenzie and Francis Guimet are other Americans who won more Walker cup matches than they cost. In all, American players have won 50 Walker cup matches, lost but 7 and halved but two.

A practice session has been called tonight for the North Highland team on the North Highland field at 6:30 o'clock.

Dies In Wreck Of Service Car

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., June 2.—Joseph Turley, 46, was killed and John Varner, 28, was seriously injured here last night when a Bow-man auto service truck swerved from the Ohio river road and struck a telephone pole while responding to an auto tire puncture call.

HILLSVILLE

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD.
The Memorial service in Hillsville Saturday was most impressive. The American Legion of Mt. Jackson which is comprised of men from Mt. Jackson, Bessemer and Hillsville came over in a body. The Bessemer high school band played under the direction of Prof. Martin. The men formed in line at the diamond and marched to the cemetery. Services were held in the Baptist cemetery first and the services for the dead were read by Mr. Lago, followed by prayer. The firing squad in charge of Dr. F. D. Campbell fired the salute over the grave of the late John W. Murphy, followed by the taps.

The members then crossed to the Methodist cemetery where the same service was carried out. The salute there was fired over the grave of Samuel Murphy, brother of John W. Murphy. The members then formed in line and marched to Briar Hill where they were met by the band and members of the Italian society. They journeyed to the St. Lawrence cemetery where similar services were conducted for the late John W. Murphy, who had died in the world war.

You're the JUDGE

The court held for Fairweather. The judges reasoned thus: There can be no actual breach of contract for non-performance so long as the time of performance has not yet arrived. Until the neighbor had suffered loss or had been deprived of that to which he is entitled, he had no case. He was not yet entitled to demand the land, therefore he as yet had no case.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Moderate Rally Is Staged By Stocks

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 2.—After the early shake-out had forced most of the favorites to new low levels for the year, stocks in all sections of the market staged a moderate rally this morning. Trading on the big board was at a fast pace in the first half-hour, with a total of 700,000 shares changing hands against 400,000 shares in the same period yesterday. Further heavy offerings of Railroad stocks forced New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Atchafalaya and other active shares a point or more down the price scale, but in most cases the rally started immediately and the opening prices were the lowest of the day.

United States Steel touched a new low at 84 1/4 in the first period, but rallied to above 86 as soon as the selling downpour lightened up. Borden's and National Dairy Products, which bore the brunt of yesterday's selling in the food stocks group, rallied sharply, the latter opening at 28 and moving ahead to 31 1/4. Borden's at 51 showed a gain of 2 1/2 points.

Representative Industrial and Utility stocks like American Can, Sears Roebuck, Consolidated Gas, North American and General Motors rallied 1 to 2 points and more in response to the better buying demand from speculative and investment sources. Wall Street bears and floor traders were reported covering up their short sales in a market in which the floating supply of stocks was none too large. Atchafalaya Railroad common forged ahead to 139 1/2 and recovered nearly half of yesterday's 10-point loss.

Exact Replica of Building Where Washington Took First Oath of Office May Be Erected on Historic Site in Wall Street

NEW YORK SUB-TREASURY

Time waiting for no man, has spread the shadow of its end over the United States Sub-Treasury standing in Wall Street, New York, on the site of the old Federal Hall, where George Washington took the oath as first President of the land. Smothered by surrounding skyscrapers, the squat Sub-Treasury shown in lower photo above, has outlived its usefulness, according to postal officials. They propose that a replica of the Federal Hall, in upper photo, be erected in place of the Sub-Treasury to help perpetuate the historical significance of the hallowed spot and keep alive memories of the building on the balcony of which Washington became first President as is pictured in inset. It is proposed that the interior of the twentieth century duplicate of the old Federal Hall be used as a postal sub-station to serve the immediate financial district.

The ouster of the Governor, the first case of its sort in the history of the State, is sought due to charges that he had been under the influence of Col. Luke Lea (left), newspaper publisher and politician and a director of several banks, which failed with $7,000,000 in State deposits. Congressman Edward H. Crump, Memphis political leader (right), is directing the campaign to ouster the Governor.

Reynolds Speaks To Old Soldiers

Vets Guests Today At Lions' Patriotic Program In Elks Club

"Patriotism—it's a word that's often misused and abused, but anyone who studies closely the patriotic response you made in Civil War times will realize what true patriotism means," declared Attorney Walter S. Reynolds in a patriotic address before the Lions Club membership and 10 surviving veterans of the conflict of 1861 who were special guests today.

The belated Memorial Day meeting marked the continuance of an annual custom. The luncheon came first, after which Attorney Reynolds gave his stirring message.

Three special instrumental numbers were furnished by the Steel String trio, composed of Harry Shepherd, Hal Davis and Arch Cubison.

Old soldiers in attendance were Edward Weitz, A. H. Bible, J. D. Patterson, Clark B. Hamilton, James Elder, J. B. Caldwell, Philip Wagner, D. M. Clark, A. R. Kerr, M. H. Alexander and Thomas Wilson, the latter from near Wampum. The veterans were seated around a special table, appropriately decorated for the occasion.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Saw a picture last night that has been missing for some time, a picture of a molten snake that curls and hisses down over a mechanical mountain, and flashes fire that can be seen half a mile away. The molten snake is the slag run out at the cement plant and last night saw the plant booming away after a shutdown.

It's a pretty sight at night, to see those long sinuous snakes of red, lazily dropping down into their beds, or you might compare the sight to a blazing waterfall. The slag is red hot as it comes from the cement kilns and back on Adams street or any of those cross streets it presents a scent that is warm and colorful.

There must be some magic art in growing tomatoes. No one can be out ahead of the crowd every spring without having some lucky word to plant with each tomato, and the secret service department of this journal is now centering its snoopers on Harry Alexander, up on Leasure avenue.

Every year, about the time the rest of us are glowing because we have green tomatoes, Mr. Alexander has them ripe and right now he has plants that seem almost ready to bloom. To repeat, it must be an art or something.

More and more the folks of New Castle are going for plants and flowers to beautify their homes and yards. And among those who know, the rock garden seems to be the than-wichest of them all, at least at the present time.

Out on Hazlercroft avenue, near Carlisle street, there are some rock gardens that should be photographed. Clever, artistic, and pleasing to the eye they are, breaking the regular monotony of a lawn, and throwing out patches of color to live up the green.

A rock garden takes but little time to prepare, and not much time to keep in shape. A flock of boulders, a few low spreading plants, and there you are. Next time you're driving out on the North Hill, take Hazlercroft out to the Wilmington Road and get a pleasant sight.

For evergreens Englewood avenue has something to offer. There may be something in the chemistry of the soil on this particular avenue, or perhaps it is because the neighbors up there take a little more pains with their evergreens. Whatever it is, they have spruces and pines and junipers growing that seem to be getting all there is out of life.

The spruces are especially good. Not many of them are the expensive Coster blue or even the Colorado blue, just such spruces as Norways and Black Hills, but they are a sight just now with their spring crop of light lettuce green showing against the darker green of last year's garb.

Councilman Lou Genkinger did a neighborly thing for the residents of the East Side near Butler and East Washington street. In front of the Epworth M. E. church there is a small triangular plot of ground which needed just about one good tree to fill it. Mr. Genkinger had a spruce tree planted there and it stands out like a light house.

In the warmer months it will be a continuing thing of beauty, when the snow is on the ground the bows will look like some bearded patriarch, and during Christmas week the tree will be just the thing for decorative lights.

There is one garden visited this spring by the engineer of this column, that were it not for the fact that the owner is the president of The News, would be good for about a column. It is that of Fred L. Rentz on Edison avenue and this is a rock garden that has a greater variety of plants in it, than other within our knowledge in the county.

It might be termed an All-American rock garden, for it has good plants from California, from Florida and from the states in between. It even has mushrooms in it, but the darn things are made of coral cement.

Revise Ruling On Burial Expenses

Where Veteran Dies In National Soldiers' Home, Expenses Will Be Paid

Advice has been received by the Lawrence County chapter of the American Red Cross from Miss Edith Spray, assistant to the director of war service of the National Red Cross, that the ruling on veterans burial expenses has been revised.

Under the new ruling, where death of a veteran of any war has occurred in a National Soldiers' home since July 3, 1930, the Veterans bureau may pay for burial expenses and transportation, a sum not to exceed $107. Prior to July 3, 1930, there were certain types of cases where burial allowance could not be paid where death occurred in soldiers' homes. This provision is not retroactive. Therefore, payments for expenditures brought about by death in a National home prior to July 3, 1930, can not be allowed.
